Uganda Releases 112 Peace Corps Representatives

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Uganda released 112 American Peace Corps volunteers today, two days after they had been taken into custody on a flight from London to their posts in Africa, the U.S. Embassy said.

The embassy said President Idi Amin ordered the volunteers released in a message delivered to Robert Keeley, deputy chief of mission at the U.S. Embassy in the Ugandan capital of Kampala.

Amin, the abrasive Ugandan strongman, ordered the Americans held Saturday afternoon at Entebbe airport near Kampala. They spent the night under armed guard at the airport and then Sunday were transferred to a hotel on Lake Victoria.

The young volunteers — 49 women and 63 men with five married couples among them — dined and danced at the hotel Sunday night with a few armed guards looking on.

In Washington, the State Department listed 111 as being held. There was no explanation for the discrepancy between the U.S. figure and the 112 listed by the Uganda government.

Today the Americans slept late, talked by telephone with worried parents at home and complained because there was no water in the hotel's swimming pool. There were reports, unconfirmed by U.S. officials in Uganda, that some of the young people hired taxis and went into Entebbe to shop for curios.

The Americans were bound for Zaire, the former Congo; and their chartered VC10 jet had taken off Saturday after a refueling stop at Entebbe.

Amin ordered the plane back as it neared the border, threatening it with Ugandan air force MIGs that were in the air for a flypast in honor of visiting President Albert Bongo of Gabon.

Radio Uganda said Amin suspected that the Americans might be Israelis or white mercenaries bent on adding to the tribal troubles that have neighboring Rwanda and Burundi in turmoil. The broadcast said the president had sent messages to the presidents of Zaire, Rwanda and Burundi asking confirmation that the Peace Corps personnel were expected there. He would consider releasing them only after he got this confirmation, the broadcast said.

Money Crisis Worsens

LONDON (AP) — The dollar recovered some ground on European money markets today after the continent's central bankers hinted their governments might protect the American currency but fell again when no intervention developed.

The dollar opened in Frankfurt at 2.3250 marks, 8½ pfennings above Friday's close. Dealers reported "extremely small" demand; and after an hour of trading, the price dropped back to 2.2950 marks.

"The situation remains extremely unstable," said one key foreign exchange banker.

The rate opened nearly 2 per cent up in Zurich at 2.75-2.77 Swiss francs, then plunged back to 2.695-2.71 by noon, below Friday's close of 2.705-2.72.

"Everyone had expected an intervention," said a Zurich banker. "That's why the dollar shot up in the morning. It did not come, so it came down again."

The volume of trading in Zurich was reported relatively large and hectic.

In a parallel development, gold opened at $125.25 an ounce in Zurich, down $1.50 from the close Friday, then rose to $126. The opening price in London was $124.50, down from $127, and dealers said market was "highly cautious and jumpy."

The dollar also made a comeback in Paris, buying 3.96-4.00 commercial francs in bank-to-bank transactions, up from 3.86-3.89 Friday. Trading there was slow, however.

The weak British pound slipped slightly against the dollar, from $2.555 Friday to $2.5525 at the opening today. But the pound rose against the mark, Europe's strongest currency, from 5.73 marks Friday to 5.98.

In Tokyo, the dollar rose two yen at the opening to 264, then was driven down to 254 before the close by a false rumor that the European markets would be closed today. This aroused fears that the Japanese government would be forced to close the Tokyo market also, and the demand for U.S. currency evaporated.

Although the European central bankers said they had agreed on a plan to support the beleaguered dollar, France's finance minister said it was up to the United States to act first.

The Nixon Administration so far has ruled out American intervention to aid the dollar since its fall last week to record lows in Europe. U. S. officials contend that the dollar is undervalued and that normal economic forces will bring a turnaround.

The central bankers met Sunday in Basel, Switzerland, for their regular monthly meeting. But instead of saying nothing for publication as usual, they ended the meeting with a 150-word communique which they apparently hoped would check the fall of the dollar when the currency markets opened today.

The central bankers said "the necessary technical arrangements are in place" to support the dollar. But they did not indicate when their governments might authorize intervention.

They cited the declaration last March by the Group of Ten — the non-Communist world's richest nations — that official intervention in exchange markets "may be useful at appropriate times to facilitate the maintenance of orderly conditions."

"The governors concluded this approach remained appropriate," the communique said.

Nixon Won't Free Watergate Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Watergate committee members are suggesting President Nixon will not be subpoenaed to testify, but there was disagreement today over what to do about presidential papers pertaining to Watergate.

One senator called the papers public records that "belong to the American public." Another said he was not concerned about getting the documents, that the committee could do its job without them.

Nixon has told committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., that he will not appear before the panel "under any circumstances" or give it access to the papers.

On a television news-interview program Sunday, committee members Sens. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., and Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., said Nixon should make the papers available to the committee.

"I've always thought that public records belong to the American public," Talmadge said. He said the Senate should consider subpoenaing the papers if Nixon doesn't turn them over voluntarily.

Talmadge said that, while he didn't think it would be possible for Nixon to be subpoenaed, "I think a committee of Congress has a right to look at public records."

Gurney, who was interviewed with Talmadge on the ABC network's "Issues and Answers" program, said he felt Nixon should turn over to the committee all documents with either a direct or indirect bearing "on this Watergate affair and who is involved and what happened."

In Connecticut, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., another committee member, was quoted in a newspaper interview as saying that Nixon's refusal to appear or turn over the documents didn't bother him.

"We're going to be able to do our job with or without him," Weicker said.

Through Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon has said that he will discuss Watergate "in an appropriate forum" after the Senate committee concludes its hearings on the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

Last week the committee, which resumes its work Tuesday with testimony from former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, formally asked for permission to examine and photocopy all White House Watergate files.

In a letter to Ervin Saturday, Nixon said: "No president could function if the private papers of his office, prepared by his personal staff, were open to public scrutiny."

The papers the committee wants include documents allegedly in the White House file of former presidential aides, including John W. Dean III, fired by Nixon as presidential counsel.

Ervin has replied: "I think that it is very unfortunate that the President of the United States is unwilling to make a full disclosure to the American people of all that he knows."

However, Ervin also has said he opposes the issuance of a subpoena to produce the records.

Hot Humid Air Prevails Over Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hot, humid conditions prevailed over most areas of the nation early today as thunderstorms lingered in southern Texas and other scattered locations.

Several tornadoes were sighted late Sunday in South Dakota, but there were no reports of injuries. Winds of 85 miles per hour were reported. Hail stones almost two inches in diameter pounded Comstock, Neb.

Violent thunderstorms hit southern Texas Sunday evening, causing flooding of several highways and low water crossings in the San Antonio area and the southwestern Texas hill country.

Heavy rain drenched Collidge, Ariz., about 30 miles southeast of Phoenix. Other showers and thunderstorms dampened areas from eastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle north along the eastern slope of the Rockies to the Dakotas and on into Iowa, Minnesota and the western Great Lakes region.

A few thunderstorms were scattered over the Southeast and the central and southern Rockies.

Before daybreak temperatures were in the 70s from New England to Florida and over most of the eastern half of the nation.

Several points over the central Plains and along the western Gulf Coast hit 80 degrees. Temperatures in the 50s were common over the northeastern Great Lakes area.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 52 at Alpena, Mich., to 97 at Needles, Calif.

Mitchell Faces Tough Questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of the Nixon administration figures linked to the Watergate scandal, none was more powerful than John Newton Mitchell.

For four years, Mitchell was one of the capital's truly influential men, a close adviser and friend of his old law partner, Richard M. Nixon. Those ties gave him power far beyond his once official position as attorney general. It's different now.

On Tuesday Mitchell goes before the Senate Watergate committee to give his version of the Watergate affair. Previous testimony has tied him to both the planning and attempted cover-up of the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

And his troubles don't end with the break-in. A federal grand jury in New York has indicted him on conspiracy and perjury charges in connection with a $200,000 contribution to Nixon's re-election campaign.

Mitchell repeatedly has denied he had any role in the Watergate planning or cover-up. He pleaded innocent to the charges in New York and awaits trial.

His attorneys have refused to discuss what he plans to tell the committee except to say his testimony "will in no way implicate the President."

Other witnesses have implicated Mitchell.

For example, ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III and Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of the Nixon re-election committee, told the Watergate panel they attended meetings in Mitchell's Justice Department office in early 1972 at which G. Gordon Liddy outlined a bizarre political espionage plan.

Both witnesses agreed Mitchell was horrified and rejected the proposal by Liddy, a convicted Watergate conspirator.

But Magruder said that at a third meeting, March 30 in Key Biscayne, Fla., Mitchell approved an intelligence-gathering project, specifically approval for initial entry into the Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington.

Dean and Magruder also implicated Mitchell in the coverup.

Oath Taking For FBI Chief Set Today

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon flies to Kansas City today for the swearing-in of Clarence M. Kelley as director of the FBI.

Nixon planned to speak briefly at the afternoon ceremonies at the Federal Office Building in Kelley's hometown. It was the President's first public appearance since June 15, when he went to Peking, Ill., for the dedication of a memorial congressional research center honoring the late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

A public turnout was expected for the occasion, with Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond on hand and Chief Judge William H. Becker of U.S. District Court in Kansas City administering the oath.

Kelley, 61, is a 20-year veteran of the FBI. He has been Kansas City police chief since 1961.

Kelley takes over from the current acting director, William D. Ruckelshaus, former head of the Environmental Protection Agency.

In winning Senate confirmation, Kelley promised he would cooperate in drafting new legislation to bring the FBI under closer congressional scrutiny than it had during Hoover's service, which dated back to the inception of the FBI in 1924.

Farm Exports Boost Consumer Food Costs $2 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A huge export drain on U.S. farm products, mainly wheat, corn and soybeans, is adding an extra $2 billion to consumer food bills this year, says the Agriculture Department.

Even with the freeze announced by President Nixon last month, retail food prices are expected to climb at least 12 per cent this year. Department analysts says at least 1.5 to 2 per cent of that increase can be linked directly to farm exports.

In all, food spending may rise to $135 billion this year from about $125 billion in 1972. Higher prices are the main reason for the $10-billion boost, but there are more mouths to feed too. And they are eating more.

That means, according to the analysts, that at least $1.75 billion of the expected increase in spending can be traced to higher prices caused by the biggest flood of farm exports on record.

For the year that ended June 30, the shipments totaled more than $12 billion or 50 per cent more than in 1971-72. Higher prices accounted for part of the gain, but the amount of farm products ordered by foreign countries has soared, too.

The effect has been to deplete reserves of grain and oilseed, prompting the Nixon administration to restrict further exports of soybeans, oil and similar products until new crops are harvested next fall.

The exports also have contributed to higher feed costs, forcing slowdown and even cutbacks in the nation's output of meat, poultry and dairy products. A further complication has been the price freeze, which growers and processors blame for a reduction in profits needed to spur production expansion.

Don Paarlberg, director of economics for USDA, says he does not think the United States is embarking on an era of permanent export rationing, despite the current curbs on soybeans and other high-protein feed.

"I hope not, and I labor to see that it does not occur," Paarlberg said in an interview.

"When we need exports as much as we do in order to improve our trade balance and to show that the dollar is a worthwhile currency, to restrict our exports is a very serious matter," Paarlberg said.

The big trigger was the sale last year of 440 million bushels of U.S. wheat, one-fourth the 1972 crop, to the Soviet Union. Russia also took upwards of 275 million bushels of corn and about 40 million bushels of soybeans.

Those sales were important to U.S. farm exports in 1972-73, but, even at a value of $1.1 billion, accounted for little more than one-fourth of the jump in value of commodities sold to foreign customers.

Japan and Europe, experiencing huge demands, as in the United States, for more and better food, were big buyers. Through last April, in the first 10 months of the fiscal year, Japan bought $1.89 billion worth of products, up 89 per cent from a year earlier.

The Common Market countries bought $2.91 billion worth in the same period, up 42 per cent from a year earlier.

Put another way, wheat exports last season totaled about 1.2 billion bushels, just as the new crop started to come in on July 1. Compared with 1972 wheat production, exports took about 75 per cent.

A record wheat crop is expected this year, maybe 1.7 billion bushels or more. But the reserve on July 1 was down to about 425 million bushels, the smallest in six years.

Corn exports are expected to total more than 105 billion bushels, about 20 per cent of last year's crop of 5.55 billion bushels. Production this year may be near a record of 6 billion bushels, although some officials think it might be less because of late planting last spring.

Soybean exports currently are expected to be about 700 million bushels, including equivalent shipments of meal, nearly 60 per cent of last year's record crop of 1.282 billion bushels.

Meantime, here is what has happened to farm prices of the three big commodities:

In June 1972, wheat averaged $1.33 per bushel. Last month, it was $2.43 nationally, the highest in 25 years.

A year ago, corn was $1.13 per bushel. In June, it was $1.99 per bushel, also the highest in 25 years.

Soybeans in June last year brought farmers $3.32 per bushel. Last month, they averaged a record $10 per bushel.

Meantime, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, here is what happened to some key food items whose production depends on grain and oilseeds:

In May 1972, hamburger averaged 73.5 cents per pound in retail stores nationally. In May 1973, the most recent month studied, it was 94.6 cents.

Other examples: Sirloin rose from $1.47 per pound to $1.75; bacon, 91.2 cents to $1.20; pork chops, $1.15 to $1.46; frying chicken, 40.5 cents to 58.4 cents, and eggs, 49.5 cents to 67.7 cents.

There are many complicated reasons for food prices going up, and farm exports by no means are the only factors. But economists say they can prove that most of the farm price increase for grain and oilseed the past year has been as a result of soaring exports.

Farm exports have been a keystone of Nixon administration agricultural policy. By developing overseas markets, officials have said, farmers can produce in a free market and rely less on the government.

The United States is the biggest farm exporter in the world, but only in the past decade have farmers come to rely so heavily on sales abroad.

In 1953, total farm exports were valued at $2.8 billion. By 1963, they hovered at about $5.5 billion. In 1964, then went to $6.3 billion, a record then, and have risen most years since.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices drifted lower again today in listless trading that some analysts felt might indicate positive factors.

However, the analysts also said the battering of the dollar and the uncertainties about the economy in general were continuing to depress prices.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down fractionally, 0.75 at 869.36. Declining issues had a slight edge on advancers on the Big Board.

Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co. said that the fact that the market was not in a steep decline in the face of a generally bleak economic picture was a sign the market might be near bottom.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was unchanged at 22.24. The New York Stock Exchange broad-based index of some 1,500 common stocks was down 0.05 at 53.31.

Patrol Handles Auto Crashes, Explosion

Two accidents and one fiery explosion were investigated over the weekend by local Highway Patrol officers.

The explosion, which occurred at 4:45 p.m. Saturday, sent Chillicothe resident Phillip Weinrich IV to Riverside Hospital's Burn Center where he is reported in "fair" condition.

Pt. Charles Cotton reports Weinrich, 37, a staff sergeant in the Air National Guard, was returning home from reserve duty at Lockbourne Air Base when there was an explosion in the rear of his 1966 van-type vehicle.

Weinrich's van was headed south on Route 23 near Little Walnut when the explosion occurred, engulfing the interior of the vehicle in flames. The driver jumped from the vehicle, which continued south on the highway and went off the roadway into a ditch. It was totally destroyed by flames.

Weinrich landed in the median with parts of his clothing on fire. He managed to remove the burning garments and flagged down a passing motorist who took him to the Highway Patrol Post. Sgt. Neil Staten administered first aid to the victim until the Harrison Twp. Rescue unit arrived to transport Weinrich to Berger Hospital.

Emergency treatment was administered at Berger, then he was sent on to Riverside.

Pt. Cotton reports the exact cause of the fire has not been pinpointed. He notes, however, that Weinrich was carrying a camp stove with fuel and a propane gas tank which might possibly figure in the explosion and fire.

Early this morning a one-car accident sent two persons to Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Taken to Mt. Carmel-East with a broken toe and nose was 23-year-old Ronald Evans, Columbus. A passenger, Marsha E. Miller, also of Columbus, was treated for lacerations to her arms, face and legs. Both were released this morning.

Weekend Accidents Investigated

A single car accident on Clark Run Road 10 p.m. Sunday resulted in two persons being treated for injuries.

Joseph E. Rhinesmith, 18, Williamsport was treated and released at Berger Hospital for lacerations, abrasions, and contusions he received when he lost control of the car ne was driving.

Rhinesmith was driving north on Clark Run Road when he failed to negotiate a curve. The vehicle ran off the berm tearing down 132 feet of fence.

After turning over several times, the car landed on its side.

Dan Lee Hastings, 36, Williamsport, passenger in the Rhinesmith car, was transferred to University Hospital after being treated at Berger Hospital for a fractured arm and wrist, back injury and lacerations to the scalp.

Sheriff's Deputy Lowell Ferguson investigated the accident.

Sheriff's Deputy Earl Kuhn cited Douglas F. Crabtree, 26, Kingston, when he was involved in a single-car accident 2:25 a.m. Sunday.

Crabtree was traveling on the Circleville-Kingston road when he failed to see a curve in the road. The vehicle went off the right side of the road coming to rest in a nearby field. Crabtree said he apparently fell asleep.

Three motorcyclists were injured while racing at the Adelphi Trails Raceway 4:47 p.m. Sunday.

Paul Vance Jr., 17, received a broken arm and abrasions. He was taken to the Chillicothe Hospital and then transferred to Columbus.

Mark G. Kennedy, 21, Route 7, Lancaster received a punctured chest and rib injuries, and was taken to the Chillicothe Hospital.

James J. Davis, 21, Columbus dislocated his shoulder in the accident and was transferred to the Chillicothe Hospital.

HISTORICAL GIFT—Ralph Haines, 509 N. Pickaway St., presented this bicycle made in 1880 to the Pickaway County Historical Society. Haines operated a bicycle, gun and key shop on West Main Street for many years.

Take Land Conflict To Court

A conflict between adjoining landowners in Saltcreek Twp. is the cause of a money suit on file in Common Pleas Court.

George D. and Rosemary Horn, 129 W. Mill St., are seeking $15,000 in damages and a mandatory injunction against Ronald and Karen Hoffman who, they claim, have denied them right of way to their land.

The suit says the Hoffmans have graded over a lane which was used for access to the Horn property and intend to make it an extension of their yard.

Also in the suit is an agreement Horns say was made in 1968 which allowed the Hoffmans one year to remove a leach bed from the Horn property. The leach bed is still on their property, according to the Horns, and has been contaminating it with raw sewage.

George and Rosemary Horn also claim damage to their land by the Hoffmans or by others with their permission. They ask damages for six large hickory trees removed from their property and re-digging of a drainage ditch on their property which the Hoffmans allegedly had filled in.

Actual damages sought by the Horns totals $5,000 with an additional $10,000 for punitive damages. They seek the court to compel the Hoffmans to restore the right of way on the original lane, remove the leach bed and reopen the drainage ditch.

Most Frenchmen Shrug Off Criticism Of Atomic Tests

PARIS (AP) — A Frenchman who sent his son to Wales to improve his English didn't get a letter from him last week because of a trade union protest in Britain against France's coming nuclear tests in the South Pacific.

"Good thing," said the father. "The kid would probably be asking for money."

The comment was typical of French reaction to foreign protests against the tests. Except for a minority who oppose the bomb, Frenchmen take the foreign furor as a bit of joke. Newspapers generally give perfunctory reports about the protests, and the government television network almost ignores the tests as well as the protests.

The government on Sunday warned all ships to stay clear of the test area from Wednesday on, indicating the tests are imminent. But such stories as the Tour de France cycling race, a British helicopter crash and the dollar crisis took precedence on the evening television news.

French protests against the tests have been confined to newspaper advertisements and telegrams to officials. There have been no street marches or protest meetings.

The most active boycotts have been in Australia, where the unions have imposed an almost complete ban on traffic with France. Mail and telephone service has been cut. Ground crews won't service French aircraft. Harbor workers won't handle French ships, and many Australians are boycotting French products.

British unions with nine million members staged a similar campaign last week.

Neither the French government nor Paris newspapers have announced any estimates of how much the boycotts have cost in trade.

New Zealand is keeping a frigate from its navy 40 miles outside the danger zone around the Mururoa Atoll, and boats sent by private foreign protest groups also are in the area. The French warning to shipping said the French navy had been authorized to board any ships entering the area. It said the navy would get such ships out of the test zone.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Mom's Sunshine Smile

DEAR ABBY: I quote from your column: "Dear Abby: My mother has been very sick for a year and a half. Her doctor says she could last another year or die tomorrow. My husband and I have put off taking any kind of vacation ever since mother's illness, and we really must get away. I'm afraid if we go, mother might die, and we'll have to turn around and rush home. Should we go or not?"

I'm glad you threw the problem right back into her lap, Abby. That's a decision everyone must make for himself. My own beloved mother suffered a series of strokes and was confined to bed, totally helpless.

My brother and I took turns staying with her for nine years, day and night, and neither one of us worried about a vacation. When one of us would walk into Mama's room, the sunshine of her smile was "vacation" enough for us. God called her home last Christmas.

NO REGRETS IN ALLIANCE, OHIO
DEAR NO: Another Ohioan had the same problem. Read on for her solution:

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman whose mother lingered so long with a terminal illness that she and her husband didn't dare to take a much needed vacation reminded me of my own situation.

We, too, had six years of the identical situation. Finally we made arrangements with a funeral home to keep mother's body until our return if she died while we were away. Then we felt free to go.

It turned out that mother passed away while we were home, so it wasn't necessary for the funeral home to grant our request. But for four years we went away on our vacation with a clear conscience, and heaven knows it was our salvation.

MARION, OHIO
DEAR ABBY: The population of this town is 1,200. There is to be wedding here soon. Two hundred and fifty invitations were sent for the service and reception.

Some of those invited do not know the bride and groom or their parents very well. Two friends of the bride's mother organized a shower with a guest list of 80 women. Again, many were practically strangers.

The two hostesses of this shower have telephone lists to several women, who were supposed to invite the guests by phone. They agreed to do so.

The night of the shower there hadn't been a single regret, so 80 women were expected. A hall was rented and chairs and tables were set up, and food and drinks were on hand for 80. Only 15 women showed up, including the bride-to-be, her mother, and the hostesses!

I was there, and it was the saddest, most embarrassing shower I've ever witnessed.

We later learned that the women who accepted the telephone lists disapproved of this kind of shower. So they just didn't call anyone. They also didn't bother to tell the hostesses of their decision.

Some women who were not called said they would have come. Others said they were glad they were not called. Regardless of the rights and wrongs of such a shower, who was responsible for this humiliating event?

AN INTERESTED PARTY
DEAR INTERESTED: Obviously, the women who accepted the telephone lists and decided not to call anyone, but failed to advise the hostesses of their decision were responsible. Shame on them.

Error By Crew Caused Crash Of Jumbo Jet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crew's preoccupation with a burned-out landing-gear light caused the crash of an Eastern Air Lines jumbo jet in the Florida Everglades last December, the National Transportation Safety Board has determined.

Ninety-six passengers and five crew members died when the massive jet crashed about 18 miles northwest of Miami International Airport. Sixty-seven other passengers and eight crew members received injuries ranging from minor to critical.

The safety board said, in a report released today, the probable cause of the accident was "the failure of the flight crew to monitor the flight instruments during the final four minutes of flight and to detect an unexpected descent soon enough to prevent impact with the ground."

Fill Patrolman's

Accident Report

A child who accidentally was left at an interstate rest area and one who slipped out of a moving car were the subjects of two investigations made Friday by Highway Patrolman Mike Everhart.

Abandoned at an I-71 rest station at 4:30 p.m. Friday, but not intentionally, was a Cleveland boy Everhart described as "three feet tall." The youngster apparently failed to notice his family return to the car to continue their trip and they also did not notice he was missing.

The Patrolman indicated that the family had not traveled far before discovering the child's absence and returned to the rest area to retrieve him.

Earlier in the day Ptl. Everhart investigated an accident involving the Clyde Horn Jr. family of Route 2, Ashville. He reports that Horn, 24, was turning left from Route 23 onto 316 when two-year-old Lucas Horn opened the right rear door of the car. The force of the turning car caused the youngster to fall out.

Young Lucas suffered only a bump to his head and abrasions to his right arm.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) How does a taxpayer take the IRS to Tax Court if he disagrees with the results of an audit?

(A) If, after an audit, the IRS proposes an increase in your tax, you may receive a statutory notice of deficiency. This notice, commonly called a "90-day letter," is sent to you upon request (if you wish to begin litigation immediately) or if you fail to use the IRS appeals procedure.

If you disagree with the proposed increase shown, and want to file suit, you may appeal to the U.S. Tax Court by filing a petition with the Clerk of the Court, Box 70, Washington, D.C. 20044. You have an absolute deadline of 90 days from the date the notice was mailed to you to petition, 150 days if the notice was addressed to you outside the United States. All the necessary forms and information on court procedures are available by writing the Clerk.

If you wish to dispute a tax deficiency of $1,000 or less and you want to employ a simplified and less formal procedure, you may request that your case be handled under the small tax case procedures of Tax Court. Just file the original and two copies of the petition form for small tax cases, Form a-S (available from the Clerk), together with your copies of notice of deficiency and a fee of $10. The same deadlines apply. You have 104 cities to choose from as the place for your hearing. This hearing is conducted informally. You can appear without a legal representative if you want to.

Instead of petitioning the Tax Court, you may pay the additional tax and file a claim for refund with the IRS. If the claim is disallowed or is not acted on within 6 months, you may file suit in a Federal District Court of U.S. Court of Claims.

(Q.) I just started working as a waiter. When do I have to report tips to my employer for withholding purposes?

Claims Seat Belts Would Cut Toll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Pete O'Grady, Ohio Department of Highway Safety director, says many of the 22 July 4 holiday traffic deaths could have been avoided by a mandatory seat belt law.

Highway Drug Deaths

It's no secret that alcohol is involved in many fatal highway accidents in the United States. Approximately half the accidents in which a fatality occurs involve a drinking driver.

One of the first definitive studies of drugs involved in fatal accidents points to a similar result.

Under sponsorship of the National Highway Traffic

Safety Administration, the Midwest Research Institute has been making studies over the last two years. Evidence of drugs was found in 28 per cent of the bodies of 410 drivers killed in accidents.

In a companion study, it was found 22 per cent of the victims had been marijuana smokers. Living drivers stopped at random and asked to participate in the test were found to include only 3.7 per cent who were marijuana users.

Because the statistical sampling is small and covered victims and volunteers in only five states, the chemist who headed the study cautions not enough evidence has been collected to prove a definite relationship between drugs and driving fatalities.

The circumstantial evidence, at least, is impressive.

Court With Fig Leaf Down

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Don't look now, but when the Kennedy-appointed Supreme Court Justice Byron "Whizzer" White joined with the four Nixon appointees to return the interpretation and enforcement of anti-pornography laws to the States and local governments it put the Burger Court into a fearsome ideological box.

What the decision did was to reaffirm the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution, which says "the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

This Tenth Amendment — the "Forgotten Tenth" — was never formally repealed. But the modern interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment has overridden the Tenth. "Equal protection of the laws" has been taken to mean that States have no rights to do anything locally that the Federal government has no right to do nationally. So the purveyor of pornography has felt that if he can seal an obscene magazine "with socially redeeming" value in Times Square, he can also seal it on Boston Common or in Squaresville, Idaho.

The application of "equal protection of the laws" to smut peddling which came in the wake of the famous decision legitimizing the sale of James Joyce's "Ulysses" resulted in what the theatrical newspaper Variety has called "the fig leaf crisis." To end the crisis by making the marketing of "porn" a matter of local option, the Court argued that "people in different states vary in their tastes and attitudes, and this diversity is not to be strangled by the absolutism of imposed uniformity."

So be it. But what does this sort of argument do to the recent Burger Court decision on abortion? The learned justices certainly "strangled diversity" there when they forced an "absolutist" judgment about the timing of pregnancy termination on all the States without regard to the condition of medical knowledge in different communities.

And how do you square local option in the smut business with the Court's ruling that separate State residency requirements for getting on the local welfare rolls are illegal under the Fourteenth Amendment? Where there was once "diversity" in the way the States governed the administration of welfare, there is now "absolutism." A man coming to New York or Connecticut from South Carolina or Mississippi has a right to welfare payments the day he arrives in town, even though the Constitution says nothing about the local rules governing relief one way or another.

Then there is the Court decision that has outlawed any type of local aid to parochial schools on the ground that the religious clause of the First Amendment prohibits any government aid to religion. The First Amendment, of course, limits itself to saying that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment or religion." It did not prohibit the making of such law to the States, some of which had "established" churches at the time the Constitution was ratified. Well and good, you might say to the Court's decision to use the Fourteenth Amendment to keep the States from buying textbooks for parochial school kids. But what about the smut merchant then? Can't he claim his right under the anti-censorship part of the First Amendment to print what he likes anywhere? Doesn't the Fourteenth Amendment extension of the First Amendment apply to him too?

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time since stockholder censuses have been compiled, the number of individual investors has dropped over a one-year period, from 32.5 million in 1972 to 31.7 million this year.

These figures are based on compilations by the New York Stock Exchange, and might actually be conservative.

Sindlinger & Co., a market research firm that tests sentiment on many subjects by almost continuous telephone calls throughout the country, maintains that since the first of the year 3.5 million accounts have been closed.

Whatever the loss, it is substantial and is worrying industry and government officials, and an increasing number of corporate executives whose companies depend on stock market financing.

Seeking the answer, they have found a multitude of explanations rather than just one, but a common theme seems to be that investors have lost confidence, not only in themselves but in the fairness and safety of the market.

Sindlinger interprets his findings this way: "It isn't so much a question of fear but of being sophisticated and realizing that a broker calls only when he wants to make money."

But a just completed study of small investors by the New York Stock Exchange indicates that fear is indeed a contributory to low trading volume.

It found "Many small investors do not feel sufficiently protected by industry self-regulation," and that a prevailing feeling was that "brokerage firms are vulnerable to a recurrence of paper work problems and financial difficulties."

There is justification for such feelings. During the 1968-1970 collapse of many brokerage firms, mainly and ironically because they couldn't handle all the business that came their way, many investors had their money tied up for months.

And now, because so many customers have either closed their accounts or permitted them to remain dormant, more firms are in danger of collapse, their income insufficient to cover overhead.

The Securities Industry Protection Corp. has 87 liquidations on its books, most of them resulting at least partly from "poor books and records." And the New York Stock Exchange has 68 firms under scrutiny, with nine of them considered for liquidation.

Compared with the confusion of 1968-1970, most of these liquidations will be handled smoothly. The endangered Big Board firms can be merged into more prosperous firms, some business sold off or their accounts transferred.

If these measures cannot be implemented, then the job becomes that of the protection corporation, SIPC, which will appoint a trustee and within weeks begin dispersing customer property, insuring each investor coverage for up to $50,000 in cash and securities left on account with a firm.

In other words, the investor today is generally considered by government and industry officials to be better protected than he was five or three years ago. But some brokers complain that the customer doesn't know it.

Here is a typical complaint heard in the financial district here, expressed by two men who asked to be described only as "two Wall Street leaders," a timidity typical of those who work in regulated industries.

"The public would be a lot more reassured if they had more information about SIPC, but SIPC has rules and regulations that make that difficult. It's almost impossible for a firm to refer to SIPC in an advertisement."

"Everything that can be printed about them is in an 11-page brochure that SIPC itself distributes. We can't summarize; we have to use their language."

"About all a broker can do is hang their logo in the window. He can't say his customers are covered for up to $50,000. And as a result, the public is poorly informed."

Ironically, the restrictions on advertising were imposed by SIPC in the interest of accurate information.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, July 9, the 190th day of 1973. There are 175 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1816, Argentina declared its independence from Spain.

On this date:

In 1810, Napoleon Bonaparte annexed Holland to France.

In 1819, the inventor of the sewing machine, Elias Howe, was born in Spencer, Mass.

In 1850, President Zachary Taylor died at the White House after serving only one year and four months.

In 1940, during World War II, the Duke of Windsor was appointed governor of the Bahamas.

In 1947, the engagement of Princess Elizabeth of Britain to Philip Mountbatten was announced.

In 1960, the Soviets threatened the United States with rockets if any attempt were made to oust the Castro government in Cuba.

Ten years ago: An agreement was signed to create the federation of Malaysia, uniting Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo.

Five years ago: New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller challenged Richard Nixon to join in sponsoring a poll of voters to determine which of the two would be the strongest Republican candidate for president.

The Central Ohio Rifle League held a National Rifle Association registered 22 calibre match at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Range.

Interested shooters were invited to attend the match. Individuals could shoot by paying the entry fee. The matches held at the Fairgrounds were sponsored by the Pickaway Farmer's and Sportsman's Association.

Linda Benzenburg, a senior at Circleville High School, was named Miss Fourth of July to reign over festivities at the annual Ashville celebration. Also a Circleville High School student was Teresa Jackson who earned second runner-up honors.

"Duffy the Magician" built quite a reputation for himself as an entertainer throughout the Central Ohio area, according to Paul Beltz. Duffy was a resident of Circleville.

Contracts calling for construction of the Second National Bank at 136-140 E. Main Street were officially awarded. Durward D. Dowden, president of the Second National Bank, said that construction would take place as soon as the two buildings in the lot were demolished.

I have always been a Tenth Amendment man myself, so I can't weep if the constabulary in Pine Bluff, Ark., decides to put a local bookseller in the clink for selling "Fanny Hill" or "A House Is Not a Home" to juveniles. But if there is to be local option in the showing of movies such as "Deep Throat," the Supreme Court justices, to be consistent, must permit local option in a score of things that now come under the ban of the Fourteenth Amendment restriction on the Tenth Amendment.

A San Francisco pornographic film maker, James Mitchell, has called the Court's ruling on "porno" literature "totally insane." But it is insane only on the assumption that sane men must be philosophically consistent. Since the laws always strain toward consistency, the debate about the Fourteenth Amendment's effect on the Tenth Amendment should be taking on a new vitality. So have at it, you Burger Court justices; look to your ideological respectability.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

We don't read about heart transplants any more. Does it mean that this project has been given up because it has been unsuccessful?

Miss G. A., Ark

Dear Miss A.:

It is understandable that the first heart transplant and the early subsequent ones would be headlined throughout the world.

In retrospect, even to physicians the amazing brilliance and courage of both surgeons and patients made the heart transplant operation stand out as a testimonial to modern science.

The sociological and scientific implications of heart transplants captured the imagination and excitement of everyone. Each case was followed with suspenseful anticipation. All of us identified with each patient and with the family that breathlessly awaited success or failure.

The headlines may have disappeared, but the work is still going on, in hospitals all over the world.

Only recently, a two or three million dollar endowment was given to Stanford University in California to pursue the study of heart transplants and the reasons for tissue rejection. This response of the body to a transplant remains the single barrier to conquered before heart and other organ transplants are routine surgical procedures.

At Stanford University School of Medicine, almost 60 heart transplants have been performed in the past five years.

Almost half of these patients are alive and functioning well. It is just unfortunate that more Federal funding and money grants are not available to increase the scope of this work.

The answer to cancer, the answer to immunological reasons for transplant failures, and the answer to Parkinson's disease, multiple sclerosis, and a host of other evasive diseases lies in the scientific pursuit of these targets.

Money is still the single ingredient that can keep viable, technical teams working diligently and harmoniously toward their goals.

To allow these teams to disband because of insufficient financial support is to delay, perhaps by decades, the solution of these scourges of mankind.

I have a small cyst of the breast. Of course, I worry that it might be cancerous.

Isn't it better to have it removed?

Miss M. W., Calif.

Dear Miss W.:

Single or multiple cysts of the breast are very common. There was a time when any such growth was viewed with moderate alarm.

Today, soft tissue X-rays of the breast, known as mammography, clearly differentiate cancerous from non-cancerous growth.

The fact that your doctor and surgeon do not want to operate and remove the cyst should give you comfort and freedom from the anxiety normally associated with these conditions.

You can be certain that if there were any confusion or concern about your problem surgery would have been recommended.

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is the weaver and memory is the tapestry it weaves.

And what a wonderful tapestry every human life is. It is a pageantry of heydays and gray days, tremulous moments and dull years, idle dreams and transient agonies that seemed perpetual while they lasted.

Life has woven you an extensive memory pattern if you can look back and remember when—

Prince Present For Independence

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — When the Bahamas become independent of Great Britain at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday, prince Charles will be on hand to celebrate.

The 24-year-old heir to the British throne arrived aboard the Royal Navy frigate HMS Minervu on Friday and said he was looking forward to joining the independence celebration.

Prince Charles was given a 21-gun salute as a flotilla of small boats escorted the frigate into port, where the prince was greeted by bahamian Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling.

The Union Jack will be replaced Tuesday with the blue, gold and black banner of the new island nation, which has been under British control for 300 years.

Farmers said corn had to be "knee-high by the Fourth of July" or they were in for a bad crop yield.

About half of a housewife's energy in summer seemed to be spent in fighting or trying to get rid of houseflies. For getting rid of them on the front porch, there was nothing better than an agile old man in a wheelchair with a wire fly swatter.

A mother had to serve biscuits or cornbread at every meal—or else what would the menfolk and kids have to sop up the bacon grease or gravy with?

Only rich men or dudes had a shirt laundered after wearing it just a single day.

There were more husbands in America who slept in their underwear than in pajamas.

When the children first started going barefoot in summer, mother sighed. She knew that within three days one of them would come home, hobbling and wailing with the agony of a stubbed and bleeding toe.

Botanical Garden

Has Big Arboretum

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Botanical Garden has been granted title to an 1,800-acre tract of land in Millbrook, N. Y., on which it has been developing the Cary Arboretum.

Dr. Howard S. Irwin said it would allow the garden "to increase dramatically our ecological commitment to mankind near and far."

A "test period" use of the property was authorized in 1971 by the trustees of the trust established by the late Mary Flager Cary.

Father Passes Down Sheep Shearing Trade To His Sons

BATTESSE LAKE, Mich. (AP) — It's not unusual for a father to teach his sons—unless, of course, the business itself is unusual.

David Comer's is. The 44-year-old Comer lives at Battice Lake near Jackson, Mich. He is a custodian at Jackson High School and has a dual occupation each spring.

That season, Comer spends most weekends and some weekdays shearing sheep for farmers in nearby areas.

"Nowadays there aren't as many sheep around as when I first learned to shear, but it's still a good business, anyway," Comer says.

Comer learned shearing from Lew Harrison, a farmer in White Pigeon, Mich., where Comer lived about 40 years ago. That was during the depression when work was hard to come by, Comer says.

After moving to Battice Lake about 25 years ago, Comer continued to shear for farmers in this area, and he taught his three older sons the skill by the time each was 14 years old. His two older sons no longer live in Michigan, but his youngest, Brian, 24, still lives at home and helps with the shearing. He has a full time job with an iron and metal company in Jackson.

Father and son can handle about eight sheep per hour. They sheared about 60 sheep recently on a Saturday at the Howard S. Mann farm in Tompkins Center, Mich.

How much is wool worth? The going price was once about 90 cents a pound, now, though it's around 50 cents a pound.

New Gold Rush Under Way In North Georgia Territory

DAHLONEGA, Ga. (AP) — North Georgia was Cherokee territory. Then, in 1828, a deer hunter found gold.

Thousands of fortune-seekers crowded out the Indians and trampled the virgin forest. Nothing could stop them.

Twenty years later, these prospectors would rush away again—this time to California to become the core of the 49ers. The two decades had made many of the prospectors rich and seasoned others who left for Colorado and California.

In 1849, during the rush to California, an assayer stood at the Dahlonega Courthouse, pointed toward nearby Findley Ridge and declared: "There's millions in it."

Already over $20 million in gold had been mined in Georgia's Cherokee country.

Mark Twain immortalized the assayer's plea by quoting, "There's gold in them thar hills."

Some companies continued mining here. Shafts and land cuts are still visible in some places. Here and there, aged machinery stands idle.

But now at least one company is setting up operations as both a working mine and a tourist attraction. And weekend tourists are coming into town with a new zest for panning gold.

Engineers say that, despite the large quantities taken out during the gold rush, at least 75 per cent of the ore is still in the ground. Mining operations had been too expensive to make it profitable. But the rise in gold value, some inexpensive and simple equipment and a willingness to work hard have led to a new gold rush.

Education Concerns State Voters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Primary and secondary education concerns Ohio voters more than any other facet of government, state Sen. Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake, reports.

He bases his belief on a poll answered by more than 1,000 of his constituents.

Voters in the densely populated Cleveland area district listed pollution control as their second biggest concern, followed by health care and treatment for the mentally ill.

Matia said highways and welfare were the source of least concern among those polled. At the same time, voters showed greatest liking for the sales tax and the greatest concern by the level of property taxes. Ranking second was the new state income tax, Matia said.

The senator's questionnaire contained 19 questions, but his constituents listed a number of other matters.

Among these were law enforcement, assistance for the elderly, consumer protection, prison reform, control of Lake Erie, parks, vocational education, and day care for children of working mothers.

Seventy-eight per cent of those responding said Ohio should ban the use of non-returnable bottles and 73 per cent favored outlawing detergents containing phosphate.

Among the 19 questions posed, only four received a negative response from the voters, including one that asked if Ohio should legalize all forms of gambling. Fifty-three per cent said no.

Voters also rejected suggestions to make it easier to obtain a divorce (60 per cent to 40 per cent), to permit school teachers and other public employees to strike (48-52), and to retain the present system for selecting judges (35-65).

The Cuyahoga County voters, otherwise, favored a Regional as opposed to local control of air and water pollution, compulsory inspection of automobiles, no-fault insurance, new laws restricting abortion, off-track betting on horse races, registration of hand guns and restrictions on their possession, and appointment of judges by the governor.

They advocated continued efforts to find a legal way to provide financial aid to non-public schools, requiring students at the state universities to pay a larger share of the increasing costs of higher education, repeal of the "blue laws" banning Sunday sales, and use of highway use tax revenues for transportation other than highways.

Congressman Harsha's Washington Report

As the Fourth of July is celebrated this week, we should attempt to evaluate the strength and weaknesses of our system and put them into a proper perspective. Such an evaluation will inevitably lead to reaffirmation of the basic principles upon which this country was founded.

In short, this country is due for a revival of that good, old-fashioned patriotic fervor which has diminished in recent years. The outward signs of patriotism, unfortunately, are not as popular today as they have been in other times. Some even regard patriotism as trite, meaningless or unsophisticated. To be patriotic, they say, is to be hard-lined and extreme. Respect for the flag and the National Anthem, pride in our heritage and gratitude for our blessings seem to be only institutional formalities to far too many people.

However, patriotism is a necessary prerequisite to a strong and vibrant nation. Pride and love of one's country are not transient; they are not subject to the whims of the times. Instead, patriotism is respect for the self-perpetuating ideals which are as valid today as they were almost two centuries ago.

If patriotism dies, a country is not far from collapse. Arnold Toynbee, the historian, says that of 21 notable nations, 19 perished not from external conquest, but from deterioration from within. No army can defeat a nation faster than a nation can defeat itself. Edmund Burke, the British statesman, said it best when he observed, "For evil to succeed, it is only necessary that good men do nothing."

I do not choose to believe that reverence and respect for our heritage are on their deathbed. Instead, patriotism has frequently been placed in a state of limbo. The concept is so simple that it is often overlooked in the complexities of modern-day problems.

There is no question about it — the United States is undergoing a crisis of confidence in its democratic institutions. In this atmosphere of doubt, it is possible to lose sight of the principles of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The words of the Declaration of Independence have been clouded by words of scandal and corruption.

There is a fine distinction between self-appraisal and self-depreciation. The differences, however, have too often become blurred. It is one thing to objectively scrutinize our system in the hope of improving it. It is another thing to degrade the entire system because it is not perfect.

The qualities which led to the birth of our country, however, are still prevalent. Common sense and common decency still form the bonds that have held us together as a free society. These traits carried us through a long and difficult war for independence. They led us through the tragic War Between The States. They sustained us through two World Wars and other crises of the Twentieth Century.

Time and again, when the laws might have crumbled, the good sense of the American people prevailed. I believe it will sustain us in the 1970s just as it did in the 1770s.

Now is an opportune time for this nation to rekindle the patriotic flame which has been our guiding light for so long. As we approach the Bicentennial Celebration, we would do well to go back and read the Federalist Papers and the Bill of Rights. We should acquaint ourselves with the hardships and tribulations our founding fathers suffered as they planted the seeds of independence. Then we should ask ourselves if our problems are greater than theirs.

While we still have problems today, we also have a society and an economy which are the envy of every other nation. Opportunity in the United States is unexcelled. The American people live better, dress better, eat better, receive better educations and have a better future than the people of any other country.

At the close of the Constitutional Convention in 1787, Benjamin Franklin said, "We have given you a republic — if you can keep it."

By exercising eternal vigilance, we can preserve the greatest government ever devised by the mind of man.

Convicted Slayer Flees

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — John Wayne Matthews, a 22-year-old convicted murderer from the nearby community of McDonald, remained at large today following his weekend escape from the Washington County Jail.

Authorities said the slim, 135-pounder broke out early Saturday morning by sawing through the bars over his cell window with a hacksaw blade.

After climbing through the opening, he cut through a screen and two more bars over a window leading to the prison courtyard, officials said.

Matthews was convicted by a county jury last May in the slaying of Harold Emrick, 17, of McDonald.

Authorities said Emrick was stabbed 38 times and then beaten last January in a trucking garage.

Matthews' escape was the fourth in two weeks from the jail. Only one of the inmates has been recaptured.

Air Quality Much Better In Valley

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Air quality over the heavily industrialized upper Ohio Valley improved considerably during the night and a spokesman for the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency said, "It looks like we're in pretty good shape."

Ray Matjasic said the air quality index for the four-county eastern region "dropped fantastically" early today from 256 to 109. The lower the index, the cleaner the air is.

Jefferson, Belmont, Columbiana and Monroe counties have been under a pollution alert because of air stagnation since Saturday.

On Sunday, the index had reached 280, only 20 points away from the warning level. The emergency level is 400.

The next reading was to be taken at 8 a.m. today. "It will probably rise a little bit by that time, but we're hoping it won't be as much as Sunday," Matjasic said.

He said "notable cutbacks" by industries in the area "definitely had something to do with the improved conditions."

He said about 50 local industries had been contacted by the EPA and the Northern Ohio Valley Air Authority and many had reduced operations voluntarily.

Baker Hopeful Nixon Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ranking Republican member of the Senate Watergate committee says he hopes the panel "can write a definitive statement on Watergate" with the help of an informal meeting with President Nixon about the scandal.

"We have got a great volume of information," Tennessee Sen. Howard Baker said from Bristol, Tenn., Friday.

"What I hope for is a conversation with Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in San Clemente earlier this week that Nixon would reply "at an appropriate time" in an appropriate forum" to testimony before the committee of which Baker is vice chairman.

Yes, Virginia, There Is A Moscow Telephone Book

MOSCOW (AP) — The first city of world communism and metropolis of 7½ million people really does have a telephone book, it was discovered Friday.

The ministry of communications has insisted all along that a telephone book listing numbers of private Moscow citizens existed and that there was a copy at the Central Telegraph Office.

Steel Pinch Talks Spur More Orders

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A rash of long term commitment requests from steel users apparently has been spurred by fear of a steel pinch, Industry Week magazine reports.

The magazine noted that long term commitments have been common, among foreign steel producers in the past, but that steel users now are asking U.S. mills for similar guarantees.

One company reported that a customer offered to sign a 3½-year contract for a certain amount of steel at full book price at the time of shipment, the magazine said.

"The number of major customers who are vitally interested in obtaining long term availability commitments for steel is amazing," the magazine said.

The magazine estimated raw steel output last week at 2,860,000 net tons, slightly down from the previous week's 2,897,000 tons, but the drop was blamed on maintenance shutdowns.

Both imports and exports continued to rise in response to the strong demand for steel, however.

Mills report "they can sell abroad almost any amount of tonnage they please of almost all products—from slabs to hot bands to finished steel—at prices equaling, or in some cases exceeding those for domestic shipments," the magazine said.

Cut thin bread slices into 2-inch rounds with a cookie cutter. Spread the rounds with a thin coating of softened cream cheese. Top each round with a cucumber slice and dust the cucumber with paprika.

But foreigners and nearly all Russians have assumed the telephone book was a mythical thing—like a good hand towel. The books rarer than cars in the Soviet Union.

The U.S. Embassy, which has people scouring stores daily to buy books, confessed it didn't have a Moscow telephone book.

"We've tried everything including the Ministry of Foreign Affairs," said an embassy staff member. "But we have been singularly unsuccessful."

The telephone book is supposed to exist in four volumes with names listed alphabetically. The first three volumes were spotted in a second-hand book store and purchased by The Associated Press for 16.40 rubles—the official equivalent of $22.63.

"Volume four hasn't been issued yet," said the bookseller. The Union Press, which serves many booksellers in Moscow, said all four volumes as a set will be on sale "next week, enough to satisfy all the needs."

Of course, the "needs" perceived by a bureaucratic organization and the needs felt by people often are far apart. "Next week" in the Soviet Union may mean next month or next year.

It is likely the telephone books go mainly to government agencies, such as the police, and to communications ministry post offices and telephone exchanges.

Russians make out their own telephone lists in notebooks, but the wrong number is a citywide plague. Strange voices are on the telephone half a dozen times a day demanding to speak to "Ivan Ivanovich" or the bookkeeping office of the "Red Flag Brickworks."

Farm Pact With Russia Important

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new agreement for the exchange of information between the United States and the Soviet Union could have far-reaching effects on farm production in both countries, the Agriculture Department said today.

The agreement, signed June 19, calls for a five-year exchange of information, scientists and commercial tradesmen supervised by a U.S.-USSR Joint Committee on Agricultural Cooperation.

One of the most important parts of the agreement, widely publicized when it was signed, provides for regular exchanges of crop production and other information designed to give each country a better idea of the other's situation in any given year.

In that way, USDA officials hope to keep closer tabs on Soviet grain requirements and not be caught off-guard by a repeat of the huge purchases of U.S. grain made by the Russians a year ago.

A report issued by the Foreign Agricultural Service spells out details of the agreement and how some of the projects might shape up. In the field of research and technology, major areas of cooperation will be plant, animal and soil sciences and farm mechanization.

"The United States and the USSR are world leaders in maintaining major collections of genetic stocks of agricultural crops and have long-range programs of exploration, introduction and evaluation of crop germ plasm," the report said.

Conceivably, one USDA research scientist said privately, access to Soviet germ plasm or seed banks might lead to radically new hybrids of crops or improved strains that could be adapted to use by American producers.

Similar possibilities exist for Soviet scientists and producers with access to U.S. seeds and plant breeding techniques.

Another possibility will be in pest control. The report said the Soviets have developed extensive control programs and new joint efforts are expected to be worked out using all available control methods.

Some of the most promising possibilities will be in the areas of livestock and veterinary research. Programs to be developed will include the following subjects:

Genetics and breeding, physiology, nutrition, including feed additives, technology of meat, milk and wool production on large farms; infectious diseases, parasitology; and veterinary toxicology.

"The exchange of animals and biological materials will be developed within the proposed projects and within the limits of existing import-export regulations," the report said.

Proposed cooperative activities will cover all classes of livestock, including beef and dairy cattle, swine, sheep and poultry.

7-Year-Old Girl Brutally Slain

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Police are searching for clues here following the discovery Sunday of the badly battered body of a 7-year old girl who had been raped and beaten to death.

Rebecca Bricker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bricker, was found Sunday afternoon on an interstate highway construction site about 300 yards from her home. She had been brutally raped and beaten to death.

An autopsy to determine the exact cause of death was to be performed at a local hospital. Police said they did not know if she had been strangled or beaten to death.

The victim's 55-year-old father said he discovered the girl was missing when he returned home from his work as a night watchman at about 7 a.m. Sunday. Bricker telephoned police after a brief search of the neighborhood had not produced the girl.

Mrs. Bricker, 30, said she had been at a number of taverns during the evening and returned home about 12:40 a.m. The mother of five said she heard no unusual sounds during the night and last saw Rebecca in bed.

The Brickers' other four children, ranging in age from 12 years to 18 months, were in the small, white-frame house in the city's Vandalia section at the time the girl disappeared. Police say they suspect the girl was carried from her home through the back door to the hillside above the Interstate 64 construction site.

Rebecca's father told police he is certain Rebecca was taken from the home against her will, because she was very afraid of the dark.

"She didn't get out on her own," Bricker said. "She had to be taken out of here."

The man who located Rebecca's body, Robert Vance of a Charleston civil defense group, said, "I've been in this business about eight years and this is the worst thing I ever ran into. I don't want to see that again."

Police agreed that it was one of the most grisly crimes committed in the capital city. One officer said, "Man, this is some character we're looking for. I've never seen anything like this."

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Sandy-colored hair hangs over his collar, and a mustache curves about his lips. But George C. Wallace Jr. says his father, the Alabama governor, doesn't seem to mind very much.

George Jr. wants to be an entertainer. He admits an interest in government but says, "I'm not motivated by it. I'd like to make my own footsteps. I can't think of anything else that fulfills me as much as music. It's really my life."

Young Wallace, 21, became interested in entertainment when he started playing the guitar in the sixth grade. He's been doing it ever since and temporarily has given up business courses at the University of Alabama so he can pursue a music career.

George Jr. feels he's on his way to success in entertainment. He recently signed a contract with MGM Records. His first recording under that label was released Friday, "There Will Never Be Anyone Else But You" and "Why Don't They Understand?"

The Alabama governor joined with his son in announcing the release. "It's a happy day for me and for my son, George Jr. I'm very proud of his song. I like it."

George Jr. often entertained for his father on the campaign trail. Some describe his music as "progressive country." Some call it "contemporary."

During an interview, the young bachelor said his hair doesn't cause any problems at home. He said his father "talks about it" but "I got him to let his hair grow a little longer, and, who knows, maybe I'll get him to grow a mustache."

George Jr. didn't write his latest songs but says he wants to write some in the future. "I've gotten into writing, and it's really opened me up," he said.

Will his name affect the record's success?

"I want the record to be judged on quality and talent and not, one way or the other, by the name," he said.

Paul Lynde Featured In Kenley Play

Paul Lynde, holder of the attendance record for Kenley Players, returns Tuesday as the star of the comedy, "My Daughter's Rated X," fourth of the Kenley summer season performances.

Lynde attracted 84,000 patrons in Warren, Dayton and Columbus when he starred in "The Impossible Years" in 1969. He followed that record-smashing performance with big engagements in "Don't Drink the Water" in 1970 and "Plaza Suite" in 1971.

Elizabeth Allen, who appeared with Lynde in "Plaza Suite" and played his wife in the TV series, "The Paul Lynde Show," is cast as his wife in "My Daughter's Rated X."

The cast includes Joanne Gibson, George Hall, Bruce Boxleitner, Susanne Wasson and Pulu, the blue-ribbon dog champion.

Arthur Marx and Robert Fisher, authors of "The Impossible Years," wrote "My Daughter's Rated X." The two have co-authored scripts for "All in the Family" plus "The Paul Lynde Show" and "My Three Sons." Marx is the son of Groucho Marx.

Opening tomorrow, the latest Kenley production will be presented 8:30 nightly except Sunday, when the evening performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. Matinees Saturday and Sunday begin 2:45 p.m.

Castro Attacks Chilean Protests

MIAMI (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro says "imperialist" forces were behind a recent unsuccessful coup attempt against the Marxist government of President Salvador Allende of Chile.

He also said the same forces were responsible for attempts to "impose a military dictatorship in Uruguay," where President Juan D. Bordaberry, under pressure from the armed forces, has dissolved congress and is ruling by decree.

The Cuban leader spoke Saturday in Matanzas Province, near the site of the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion, in ceremonies dedicating a public school. The address was broadcast throughout Cuba and monitored in Miami.

U.S. Flood Insurance Not Sought

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland has asked to participate in subsidized federal flood insurance programs, but property owners in the 12 northern Ohio communities already approved by the federal government have been slow to sign up.

Businessmen and residents in the 12 communities who do not may find themselves disqualified for federal disaster assistance after this year, however, according to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

HUD kicks in funds that permit insurance companies to offer the flood insurance at lower rates in approved communities. The 12 cities in Ohio are Brunswick, Eastlake, Kent, Mentor, Painesville, Vermilion, Lorain, Gates Mills, Lakewood, Mayfield, Sheffield Lake and Rocky River.

Insurance company officials said signups have varied from city to city but that many property owners have not purchased coverage.

"It's difficult to understand why more people are not taking advantage of it," a spokesman said. But he noted that the coverage was offered in most of the towns after fall and winter floods occurred.

"It's like locking the barn door after the horse gets out," he said.

The Cleveland City Council two months ago approved a resolution urging building commissioners to review permits to make certain the construction would meet with flood requirement standards.

The city later applied to HUD for eligibility in the flood insurance program.

Colonels To Play 10 Cincy Games

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Ownership of the Kentucky Basketball Association of the American Basketball Association is back in the hands of Louisville, Ky. interests but with a guarantee that pro basketball will return, at least partially, to Cincinnati this fall.

Cincinnati Sports Inc., however, retained 40 per cent of the Colonels while selling 57 per cent to the wife of Kentucky Fried Chicken Inc. owner John Y. Brown.

The result is Cincinnati will host 10 games here while 26 are played in Louisville.

CSI President Brian Heekin told a news conference here Friday that the Colonels are also negotiating with the University of Kentucky at Lexington to play six games there.

Cincinnati, under the terms of the sale, will also host one-third of any playoff games the Colonels get into.

"Regionalization of the Colonels, plus good promotion and exciting basketball should draw very well," Heekin said. He said prefixing the Colonels name with Kentucky would be no hindrance to drawing in Cincinnati.

"It's good basketball. It will be properly promoted," he said, adding, "that's one thing the Royals didn't do properly."

The Cincinnati Royals, now the Kansas City Kings of the National Basketball Association, moved out of Cincinnati in 1972 complaining of poor fan support.

"The Cincinnati Royals drew better in Cleveland than they did in Cincinnati even though they were called the Cincinnati Royals," Heekin said.

"This was our intention when we purchased 97 per cent of the stock of the Colonels in March," Meekin said. "We will be retaining a substantial amount of stock to guarantee the team as a tenant for the Cincinnati coliseum."

CSI said the price was $2 million. "We didn't make a profit on the sale," Meekin said.

William Cousins Wins Buckeye Boat Trophy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—William Cousins of Louisville, Ky., powered his River Rat hydroplane to victory in the sixth annual All-America City Regatta Sunday and captured the Buckeye Federal Cup.

Cousins hydroplane covered the five miles in the average speed of 64.2 miles an hour.

Two other Kentuckians followed Cousins across the finish. Durb King of Covington drove Bon Bon II to second place and Jim Davis of Louisville piloted Hornet to third.

Reds Shut Down Phils, 4-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds came to Philadelphia for three weekend games and swept the Phillies off their feet. A fuming Philadelphia manager, Danny Ozark, wasn't in the mood for any excuses after Sunday's 4-0 loss.

"I don't want to hear about a team being tired after 80 games," Ozark said. "If this club is tired now, it is not the kind of team I want to try to win a pennant with in September."

Ozark, who started his team on a winning tear after a similar blowup in Houston June 4, told his players they played like they were asleep.

"The way they played today is not the way they have been playing. And it is not the way they are capable of playing. I just reminded them they have the ability to do things . . . better," said the manager, after closing the team's locker room for 38 minutes after the loss.

Wayne Twitchell, who tops the National League for earned run average, was tagged for nine hits Sunday, while his Red counterpart, Jack Billingham, was four-hitting the Phils. It was Billingham's fifth shutout of the season and his 12th win in 17 decisions.

Johnny Bench singled home two runs to put the Reds in front 2-0 in the third, then Larry Stahl tripled home a run in the seventh and Tony Perez singled in another in the eighth.

"I think maybe we have it going now," said Reds manager Sparky Anderson, whose team came into the series with the worst hitting average in the league. The Reds had 12 hits in each of the first two contests with the Phillies.

Bouyed by the victory, Anderson predicted his team would give the Los Angeles Dodgers, who lead the West, a "real chase."

Ozark's ire was inflamed by the action of infielder Mike Schmidt. He explained that he originally planned to call a meeting for today, but "exploded" when he discovered Schmidt had left the clubhouse after being removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning.

"When a man does that it indicates no interest," Ozark said. "He's not giving 100 per cent the way he should."

He said Schmidt would be fined for his action and that the rest of the team got a "gentle kind of chewing out."

2 Aaron Homers Aid 4-2 Victory

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the past six years, George Stone was in the best possible place when Hank Aaron went to the plate—on the Atlanta roster.

On Sunday, however, Stone, now a New York Met, turned up in the worst possible place when Aaron went to the plate—on the mound.

Stone's baseball met Aaron's bat and became a souvenir, not once, but twice. The 39-year-old Aaron hammered home runs Nos. 695 and 696 (22 and 23 on the year) and the Braves defeated the Mets 4-2. He's now only 18 career homers shy of Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati blanked Philadelphia 4-0; Houston topped Montreal 9-7; San Francisco edged St. Louis 5-4; San Diego beat Chicago 4-2, and Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 3-2 in 12 innings.

This is the era of audience participation. Spectators vote for their all-star teams and become part of the show at the theater, and now the

Pickaway DuPont Rips Saltcreek

In County Minors

Pickaway DuPont bombed Saltcreek, 26-6, in a Tri County Little League Minor clash.

Todd Pontius, Freddie Redman, Willy Thompson and Roger Brown all took a turn on the mound for Pickaway. They allowed a total of one hit, 12 walks and fanned nine.

Todd Hunt and Terry Hardman shared mound duties for Saltcreek. They gave up 13 hits, 12 walks and struck out three.

Thompson paced the DuPont attack with two doubles and a single, Pontius rapped a pair of singled and a souble, Todd Caudill slammed two doubles, Redman and Tim Collins each cracked a two-bagger while Jeff Hardin, Richie Miller and Chris Conrad had a single apiece. Jay Thomas had a single for Saltcreek's lone hit.

Pickaway DuPont will be at Washington tonight. Both teams have 7-1 records.

Montreal fans are getting into the act.

They stopped the show in the top of the fourth by panning the performance of Houston left fielder Bob Watson, who had collided with Tim Foli at the top of the inning.

The 6-foot, 175-pound Foli was carried off on a stretcher with a broken jaw after attempting a tag play on Watson, a 6-foot-3, 205-pounder who was moving to second on Doug Rader's ground ball.

Feller Says Trick Pitches Take Back Seat To Fast Ball

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Former Cleveland Indians' pitching great Bob Feller says today's young players are making a mistake by trying to learn how to throw spitball pitches.

"Everywhere I go today, kids are asking me how to throw a spitter or some other kind of trick ball," said the Hall of Fame great, appearing at the Fort Lauderdale Baseball School.

"They're asking me everything but how to get the fastball over the plate and that's the most important thing in pitching," said Feller, who won 266 games and lost 162 in 20 years with the Indians.

"Take a look at Cy Young, Walter Johnson or even yours truly," he said. "We didn't throw spitballs. We threw fastballs and curves and that's how we got into the Hall of Fame."

Feller, a right-handed hurler, was known by the nickname "Rapid Robert" in his American League stint which saw him record 2,581 strikeouts and post a career earned run average of 3.25.

Feller, now 54, said, "A pitcher shouldn't have to rely on a spitter or even a knuckleball. Both those pitches, especially the spitter, are very difficult to throw."

"If the spitball were legalized today, it would probably hurt more pitchers than it would help. It's a very delicate pitch to throw and usually it goes this way and that. A pitcher would get behind and then have to come back with something else to catch up."

two homers in the Astros' come-from-behind victory.

Cincinnati shut out Philadelphia on Jack Billingham's four-hitter and Phils' Manager Danny Ozark, in turn, shut out the press.

Ozark invoked his form of freedom from the press after the game for 38 minutes, blasting his club for "lazy play."

Willie McCovey, who has been relegated to the role of spot starter and pinch hitter during Charlie Fox's youth movement, entered the game in the fourth after Gary Maddox was hit by a pitch and went three-for-three with two RBI to key the Giants' victory.

Rookie left hander Randy Jones pitched a four-hitter and singled in a run in San Diego's two-run eighth which lifted the Padres to their victory.

Current Indians' pitcher Gaylord

Perry has been accused of throwing a baseball with grease on it. Feller said he doesn't know if Perry throws the illegal pitch, but "I tend to believe he does. The way the ball drops sometimes, I don't see how it could be anything else."

"I think he must keep the stuff on his skin somewhere or maybe on his jersey," he said. "It's a great psychological edge."

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Streamline routine duties so they are easier to do and more productive. Take time to contact members of your family and make sure they are fine. Be helpful where necessary. Be logical.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Engage in those activities that can make your life more harmonious and worthwhile. State your finest aims to associates. Evening is fine for being with good friends and having a good time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you use good judgment today you can improve your position in life considerably. Talk with experts in financial fields if you are in doubt about anything. Keep busy at routine duties.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy handling personal matters since the planets are favorable in such directions. Accept a worthwhile invitation and something fine will result. Travel with utmost care this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk with a respected associate and plan the future more wisely, since you have true vision now. Be sure to pay important bills. Devote the evening to the one you love. Listen carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) The planets make this a fine day for the social, so keep busy at that during spare time. You can establish a fine friendship with one you had barely thought about in the past.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact a bigwig you know and get the support you need to open new doors of opportunity for you. Attending public affairs can also be helpful to you now. Sidestep one who likes to argue.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can succeed if you study carefully those new avenues through which you want to make a better life for yourself. Make plans to take a trip that could be beneficial for you. Keep active.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those dynamic young people who can work harder and for longer periods than others and upon reaching maturity will tackle important projects. Teach to cooperate more with associates, since there could be little communication with others. This could ruin the otherwise great potential here. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Time has not dulled the memory of that furrowed brow and those sculptured tones.

Edward R. Murrow, foremost reporter in television's early days, is brought back to life in a replay of his historic confrontation on "See It Now" with Sen. Joseph McCarthy, the Communist-hunting Republican from Wisconsin.

The confrontation was the beginning of the end for McCarthy, although McCarthyism lingered on.

Three "See It Now" broadcasts from early 1954 were condensed into one hour Sunday as CBS inaugurated a new 12-week summer series called "CBS News Retrospective."

In light of our present relationship with the Soviet Union and Communist China, the which hunt hysteria of that era seems almost like ancient history. That McCarthy inspired such fear - and with so little evidence of guilt, as documented by Murrow - is a wonder.

Murrow's tactic was to let McCarthy expose himself with his own words. He strung together films of McCarthy speeches and hearings, then filled in the missing facts.

The Murrow broadcast of March 9, 1954, was one of the first to demonstrate the power of television to influence events. Viewer response ran substantially against McCarthy. Subsequent broadcasts included McCarthy's reply and Murrow's reply to McCarthy's attempt to brand him a Communist sympathizer. By the end of the year, McCarthy had been censured by the Senate, and his power waned. He died in 1957. Murrow died in 1965.

Next Sunday night, CBS will show two more "See It Now" broadcasts, these from 1953. All of the early shows are in black and white.

Other documentaries in the retrospective include "The Silent Spring of Rachel Carson," "Black History: Lost, Stolen or Strayed," "Don't Count the Candles" and another historic Murrow show, "Harvest of Shame."

That documentary on migrant workers came back to haunt Murrow when he served as President Kennedy's head of the United States Information Agency and CBS sold it for showing on BBC.

This retrospective of a time when television documentaries packed more wallop than they do today is in a sense a legacy of the strike by the Writers Guild of America. Unable to schedule new shows for the summer, CBS hauled out the old documentaries. They were last shown two years ago at Lincoln Center in New York by the center's Film Society. The Murrow documentaries demonstrate the impact of television—too rarely found in documentaries today except occasionally on CBS' "60 Minutes" and NBC's "First Tuesday." ABC has announced a series of 12 hard-news documentaries for next season.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Marilyn Hennis
Steele on her birthday, July 9th.
It's hard to lose the ones we love.
To see them pass away.
The sweetest and the kindest gone
While others are left to stay.
But if we had a garden
With roses fair and bright,
We'd often pick the loveliest
And think it to be right.
And so it is with Jesus
In his earthly garden here
He often picks the fairest flowers,
The ones we love so dear.
Loved and remembered on this your birthday.
Mother and Brothers.

Circle Hills Residents File Suit

Twelve residents of Washington Twp. are seeking a court order to halt building by William and Beverly K. Boysel in the new residential subdivision there.

The twelve, residents in and around the new Circle Hills Subdivision, claim that Boysels are making preparations to erect a 26-foot by 42-foot pole building on a lot they own in the subdivision.

Their complaint notes that the building is in violation of the township zoning code although Boysel has been issued a building permit by the Washington Twp. Zoning inspector.

A temporary injunction was signed last Thursday by Judge William Ammer halting any construction at present until matters may be presented at a 9 a.m. hearing in Common Pleas Court July 16.

Filing the suit are Walter and Helen Rase, Route 4, original owners of the farm on which Circle Hills was created who hold mortgages on several lots and several acres of the subdivision, plus the following Circle Hills landowners:

David L. and Antoinette Van Fossen, Carol E. Cupp, Carl and Sandra Stonerock, Tom and Johnda Perkins, Ted W. and Cheryl Harber, Paul E. Ott, Joy A. McCabe, Gerald and Denise Harter, Mark and Patty Davis, Strand and Joyce Knisely, Lawrence E. Jr. and Vickie Ramsey, Thomas and Connie Pritchard, Kenneth and Janet Haddox, George and Connie Adams, Herbert and Jancie Hardy, James and Bennie Sherrick, Virgil and Martha Anderson and Harold Chamberlain.

The televised Senate Watergate hearings resume Tuesday with testimony scheduled from former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

The first big issue on the Senate floor this week concerns efforts to clear a legal obstacle to building the Alaska oil pipeline.

A massive general farm bill is set for action on the House floor.

Other pending legislation ranges from campaign reform and minimum wages to presidential war powers. Congress also is expected to move toward final action on the regular appropriations bills to finance the government during the fiscal year that started July 1.

Although the lawmakers have not completed work on any of these big money bills, they adopted a resolution June 30 allowing the agencies to continue spending at last year's levels through Sept. 30.

The pipeline dispute facing the Senate involves an argument over energy needs and the environment, with the plan's backers saying it would relieve the nation's shortages by tapping vast oil resources in Alaska.

Midwestern senators plan to press for an amendment to block the project, pending study and negotiations for a trans-Canada pipeline to bring Alaska oil directly to their part of the country.

Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., prime backers of the amendment, said Sunday that millions of barrels of U.S. oil will be sold to Japan if the trans-Alaska route is approved.

They said the Canadian route would get oil to American markets where the energy shortage is the most severe and would minimize environmental risks while affording "our best protection against exporting U.S. oil at a time when we face a major energy shortage here at home."

Meanwhile, the House was prepared to start work Tuesday on a sweeping four-year farm bill that would drop the annual subsidy payment ceiling and would set target prices for wheat, feed grains and cotton. A target price would guarantee a farmer a specific level of income on his crop.

Other key parts of the bill would extend food stamp provisions, repeal a so-called bread tax, and hike the minimum price support on manufacturing milk by 5 per cent.

VALUABLE CASH COUPONS

PROVIDE A STEADY STREAM OF WEEKLY BARGAINS

Kroger leaves no stone unturned in search of ways to help cut your food costs. Right now, you find many valuable cash coupons in Kroger ads. Suppliers of several of the national brands on our shelves also run money-saving coupons in their own ads in the weekly newspaper food section. Together, these coupons provide an easy way to save many extra food dollars. $100 in annual coupon savings is a conservative figure for the average family that takes maximum advantage of coupon offers. All you as a shopper, have to do is clip the coupons when you make up your shopping list from the weekly ads; and redeem them for items you need. There's nothing new about cash coupons. Yet, even in today's inflationary world, many shoppers are not aware how much coupon savings can relieve the strain on their food budgets. We hear you and we're trying to help!
